

Medicine Talks (II): Perceiving Society and Individuals from the Japanese Occupation to Independent Indonesia

A symposium and open discussion on society and medicine in Indonesia during and after World War II.

Date/ time: October 4, 2016, from 13.00-16.00

Venue: Room 4 B (4th floor), National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS)

(For access; <http://www.grips.ac.jp/en/about/access/>)

Hans Pols (Sydney University)—keynote

“Collaboration, Opportunism, and Resistance: Indonesian Physicians during the Japanese Occupation”

Mayumi Yamamoto (Miyagi University)

“Men, ‘Do not Approach the Dangerous!’: Military Practice for Prevention of Venereal Disease”

William Bradley Horton (Waseda University)

“From Shadow Work to the Front Line: Japanese and Indonesian Nurses in Java and Bali under Japanese Military Administration”

Yamazaki Isao (Saga University)

“Kurume-Jakarta-Palembang: Adventurous wartime explorations of Bridgestone and the Kurume Medical School”

Moderator: Jafar Suryomenggolo (GRIPS)

This symposium and open discussion is organized under a JSPS research project on Indonesian wartime and postwar networks (科学研究 基盤 B No. 16H05679, 代表:山本まゆみ).